

BASE BALL FANS MEET WEDNESDAY

Those Interested In a Team For 1911 Season Will Gather at The City Hall

With the approach of spring the base ball fans are beginning to ask the question, "Is Rhinelander to have a base ball team this year?" In order to decide this matter and to learn the sentiment of the sporting fraternity on the subject a meeting of the fans has been called for next Wednesday evening at the city hall. Every person interested in placing this city on the base ball map for 1911 is urgently requested to attend this meeting.

Chas. Bellier, who managed last season's team, has received letters from nearly all of the old players, requesting information concerning the prospects here for the coming season. The boys express themselves as desirous of returning to the city, providing their services are required. Charley says that he is as anxious as any loyal fan to see a team here, but that he positively refuses to again become the manager. At present there are no suitable candidates mentioned for the job and it looks as though Charles Augustus will be forced to assume the responsibility in the event that a club is organized.

This and other affairs pertaining to base ball will all be talked over at the meeting next Wednesday. One enthusiastic admirer of the game, Vern McLaughlin by name, declares that he will give his check for $25 toward defraying the expenses of a team. Vern has the right spirit. Others have also signified their intention of making liberal contributions for the good cause. If there are enough fans of this stripe there is no doubt but what Rhinelander will not be without the great national game next summer.

FAVORABLE FOR RHINELANDER

Basket Ball Team Still In Race For Appleton Tourney

Appleton, Mar. 1.—The race for entry to the state basket ball tournament to be held at the Lawrence college gymnasium March 30, 31 and April 1, was unchanged by the games of the last week, especially in the central and eastern sections of the state, except that one or two of the weaker teams strengthened their positions at the expense of a similar number of the fives that were counted among the stronger teams.

The race in the southern part of the state seems to lie between Janesville, Beloit, Madison and Portage, although Jefferson, Stoughton, Brodhead and Sun Prairie are not out of the race.

In the northern section the chase is narrowed down to three teams, Superior, Rhinelander and Ashland. Rhinelander has been playing fast ball and the ultimate fight in that section no doubt will be between one of the two high school teams in Superior and the Rhinelander five.

The Lawrence college tourney committee is busy these days answering the dozens of letters received daily from managers of teams who are asking questions of all kinds, making all kinds of demands and asserting the rights of their respective teams to get into the state meet.

THE BEAVERS ARE GROWING.

P. J. Ford, organizer for the Beavers who established the lodge in this city, arrived Monday from Wausau to remain a few days in the interests of the order. The Beavers have had a flourishing growth since their organization in Rhinelander. Mr. Ford expresses himself as elated with the prospects of the lodge and hopes in time to see it become one of the largest in the state.

As an organizer Mr. Ford is in the front rank. He is continually hustling for the good of the order and securing new members with ease.

MUSICIAN IN TROUBLE

Fred King Is Arrested For Failing To Support Children

Fred King of Minocqua, a musician well known in this city, will be tried at the March term of Circuit Court on the charge of neglecting his family.

The Minocqua Times of last week contains the following on King's arrest:

Fred King was brought before Judge Ames last Saturday to answer to the charge of non-support of his children. District Attorney, Chas. W. Fricke was up from Rhinelander and plead not guilty and was bound over to the charge of the prosecution. King was taken to Rhinelander. It seems that King has been drinking heavily for some time, thus the cause for the complaint. The red liquor will do the business if taken in large enough doses, with surprising quickness.

LATER—King pleaded guilty to the charge against him before County Judge Billings, Monday afternoon, and was sent to board at Crofoot's hotel for ninety days.

DAY LETTERS ARE NOW BEING SENT

Western Union Telegraph Company
Install New Service
For Its Patrons

Manager S. H. Ashton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company in this city, announces that the company has inaugurated a new form of telegraph service called the "Day Letter" which commends itself as affording decided economy and profitable advantages to the business community. The Day Letter, which will doubtless be used largely by the people of Rhinelander, is designed as the day companion to the Night Letter, which service the Western Union has afforded its patrons for the last year or more.

The rate charge for a Day Letter of fifty words or less is one and one-half times the Night Letter rate, and for each additional ten words or less one-fifth the initial charge. For example, the New York-Chicago Night Letter rate is 50 cents; the day letter is one and one-half times that or 75 cents, with 15 cents for each additional ten words.

Day Letters should be written in plain English code language and code words not accepted. They may be filed at any time and are to be transmitted as the facilities of the company may permit during business hours.

THE FINAL SETTLEMENT

A good comedy drama written on new lines, "The Final Settlement," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday March 8. The play presents a realistic picture of American Social life, is somewhat melodramatic and is one of the big successes of the present season. It depicts the rise of a brilliant and ambitious young man from the ranks of labor to a position as president of a big iron trust. This sudden elevation bewails his wife, who clings to her old fashioned ideals of husband, child and home. The man's ruin, and the faithfulness of the wife in the time of need, are told in a powerful manner. It is a strong simple story of a phase of life which is becoming only too common place at present time.

DUTCH IMMIGRANTS COMING

A report from Appleton states that the population of Wisconsin and Minnesota will be increased by the coming of several hundred Dutch immigrants. This announcement was made by Rev. F. X. Mistelrey, in charge of the parish of Hollanders at Kimberly, who has been arranging for the arrival of the settlers.

BREAKS HIS LEG

Roy Jordan, an employe in one of the Stevens Lumber Company's camps near Pariah, was brought to the city last night, suffering with a broken leg. The accident occurred while Jordan was loading logs.

FROM LINCOLN'S FIRST INAUGURAL.

Salient Extracts From Address on Taking Oath of Office as President Fifty Years Ago.

THE following extracts from the first inaugural address of Abraham Lincoln are of interest on this fiftieth anniversary of his inauguration as president:

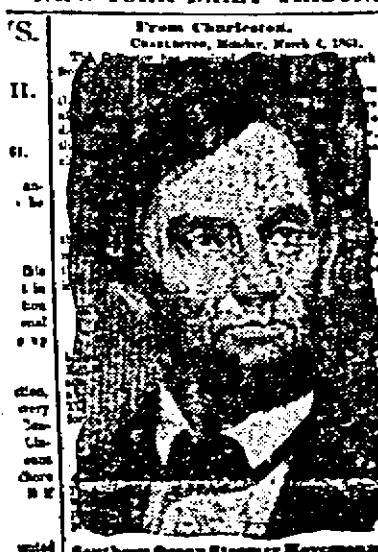

Fellow Citizens of the United States: In compliance with a custom as old as the government itself I appear before you to address you briefly and to take in your presence the oath prescribed by the constitution of the United States to be taken by the president "before he enters on the execution of his office."

It is seventy-two years since the first inauguration of a president under our national constitution. During that period fifteen different and greatly distinguished citizens have in succession administered the executive branch of the government. They have conducted it through many perils and generally with great success. Yet, with all this rate, we cannot remove our respective sections from each other nor build an impassable wall between them. A husband and wife may be divorced and go out of the presence and beyond the reach of each other, but the different parts of our country cannot do this. They cannot but remain face to face, and intercourse, either amicable or hostile, must continue between them. Is it possible, then, to make that intercourse more advantageous or more satisfactory after separation than before? Can aliens make treaties easier than friends can make laws?

Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world? In our present differences is either party without faith of being in the right? If the Almighty Ruler of nations, with his eternal truth and justice, be on your side scope of precedent, I now enter upon the same task for the brief constitutional term of four years under great and peculiar difficulty. A disruption of the federal Union, heretofore only menaced, is now formidably attempted. I hold that in contemplation of universal law and of the constitution the Union of these states is perpetual. Perpetuity is implied, if not expressed, in the fundamental law of all national governments. It is safe to assert that no government proper ever had a provision in its organic law for its own termination. Continue to execute all the express provisions of our national constitution and the Union will endure forever, it being impossible to destroy it except by some action not provided for in the instrument itself.

Again, if the United States be not a government proper, but an association of states in the nature of a contract merely, can it, as a contract, be peaceably unmade by less than all the parties who made it? One party to a contract may violate it—break it, so to speak—but does it not require all to lawfully rescind it?

One section of our country believes slavery is right and ought to be extended, while the other believes it is wrong and ought not to be extended. This is the only substantial dispute. Physically speaking, we cannot separate of the north or on yours of the south that truth and that justice will surely prevail by the judgment of this great tribunal of the American people.

My countrymen, one and all, think calmly and well upon this whole subject. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there be an object to hurry any of you in hot haste to a step which you would never take deliberately, that object will be frustrated by taking time, but no good object can be frustrated by it.

In your hands, my dissatisfied fellow countrymen, and not in mine is the momentous issue of civil war. The government will not assail you. You can have no conflict without being yourselves the aggressors. You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government, while I shall have the most solemn one to "preserve, protect and defend it."

I am loath to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.

RETURNS TO THE WEST

Frank Dufraine left Saturday morning on his return to the west, his destination being Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where he has a position with a large lumber concern. Mr. Dufraine was called to this city early last December by the illness of his father, I. Dufraine, who passed away shortly after his son's arrival. The west has for a number of years past been Mr. Dufraine's home and he likes the country. Work is plentiful there for men of his trade and wages are high.

TOMAHAWK HIGHS WIN FROM LOCALS

Rhinelanders Team Is Crippled
By Loss of Best Men—Score
Is 32 to 15

At Tomahawk, Friday night, the high school basket ball team of that city defeated the Rhinelander High by a score of 32 to 15.

While it must be admitted that the Rhinelander City five played fast ball the result would no doubt have been different had the local team not been crippled by the absence of its strongest men. Swedberg and McDermott were removed for disobeying rules by playing on two teams in the same season. Howard Reed was in Milwaukee on business and "Butch" Fenelon was on the sick list. The team was practically composed of substitutes. Regardless of this fact the boys made a hard struggle to defend the honor of their school and managed to keep from being swallowed alive by their opponents. In a few instances Rhinelander failed to keep its men covered as well as it might have done and this allowed Tomahawk to run in a few extra scores. The game was largely attended.

Antigo Here Saturday.

The high school basket ball team finishes its season next Saturday night with two big games at the Armory. At this time the boys will take on their old rivals from the Antigo school. The game will be closely contested at every point and promises to be interesting. The girls' team will play the preliminary against the girls' team from the Tomahawk high school. Don't fail to attend the final game of the season. Admission 25 cents.

LOOKING FOR DESERTER

Arthur Laurie Is Thought To Be In Northern Wisconsin

Sheriff Crofoot has been notified by the government officers at Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., to be on the lookout for Arthur J. Laurie, a young man who deserted from the United States army on February 2nd, last. Descriptions of the man have also been sent to Chief of Police Straub. Laurie whose home is in Marinette, is believed by the army officials to be in northern Wisconsin, probably employed in one of the logging camps. He is twenty-three years of age and of neat appearance.

RETAIL LUMBERMEN MEET

Jas. O'Melia Attends State Convention at Milwaukee

Jas. O'Melia, of the Conro Lumber Company, returned Monday from Milwaukee where he was in attendance at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Retail Lumbermen's Association. Mr. O'Melia had charge of a display of pine, hemlock lumber and bath from his company in room 14 of the Pfister Hotel. There he met many of the visiting buyers and booked several nice orders for the above products. D. H. Doyon assisted him with an exhibit of southern products and maple flooring.

The convention came to a close Thursday afternoon after electing the following association officers for the ensuing year:

President—G. W. LaPointe, Jr.
Treasurer—Frank Boden.
Director for three years—L. C. Whitte.
Delegates to the American Lumber Trades Congress—L. C. Whitte, F. S. Durham, Paul Lachmund.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

The examination for forest rangers, will be held in Rhinelander, Friday March 10th, at 9 o'clock a. m., at the high school building. Do not forget the hour, the date nor the place.

The examinations for the other positions advertised on the poster will be held in the city council room Saturday, March 11, at 9 o'clock a. m.

GUMS-NICHOLS NUPTIALS

Ceremony Is Performed by Justice
LaSelle Last Friday

Miss Mabel Gums and Emil Nichols, both of this city, were married by Justice W. B. LaSelle last Friday afternoon. The young couple left immediately on a visit to Antigo and Tomahawk, returning to the city, Tuesday afternoon.

Both Mr. Nichols and his bride are well known and have a large number of friends in Rhinelander. She has lived here for the last two years. Mr. Nichols until a short time ago was employed as salesman at the Nichols Hardware Company's store. He has taken a position as meat cutter in Milwaukee and will leave for that city tonight. Mrs. Nichols will join her husband in about one week.

MAN IS CAUGHT IN MACHINERY

R. J. Van Horn, Insurance Agent,
Has Strange Accident In
Soo Coal Sheds

R. J. Van Horn, an accident insurance agent who makes Rhinelander his headquarters, was badly disabled in a peculiar accident which he met with in the machine room of the Soo line coal sheds, Friday evening.

Van Horn had entered the sheds for the purpose of selling insurance to one of the night crew. While standing near the machinery, his coat became entangled in the cogs and he was dragged into the machinery. Fortunately the weight of his body caused a break down to the machinery which stopped instantly, causing Van Horn to escape probable death. As it was the young man was hurt to a serious extent. His right arm was broken, his shoulder blade fractured in several places and the ligaments of the shoulder were torn. Dr. Schiek was called to dress Van Horn's injuries. He did not go to the hospital but is staying at the Clifton Hotel.

As an agent, Van Horn personally demonstrated that it is wise for all people to carry accident insurance. He has a policy in his own company and consequently will not lose financially during the time he is compelled to be off duty.

COURT CONVENES TUESDAY

Judge A. H. Reid Sends Word That He Will Preside

The spring term of Circuit Court for Oneida County will convene in this city next Tuesday morning, March 6th. Judge A. H. Reid, who it was announced would not preside at this session, sends word to Clerk of the Court Sturdevant that he will arrive in Rhinelander Tuesday morning. The Deltz case, which was to have been heard before Judge Reid at Hayward last week, has been postponed until later in the year.

The calendar for this term contains seven criminal cases, twelve fact for jury cases, seven issues of fact for court and one issue of law. The session promises to be a short one.

WILL SHORTEN ROUTE

Soo Plans New Cutoff From Chippewa to Marshfield

The Soo line is planning another cut-off on its St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago, Milwaukee line. It involves the construction of a new line. This will give the Soo practically from Chippewa Falls to Greenwood, an air line, from Chippewa Falls to Marshfield, with eliminate some costly grades and curves and at the same time shorten the line about fifteen miles. Representatives of the Soo line and interests associated with the road have recently purchased several thousand acres of wild and cut-over lands in Chippewa, Eau Claire and Clark counties along the route of the proposed cut-off.

Washburn

Work on the new extension of the Superior & Southeastern railway company is not progressing as rapidly as was expected on account of the deep snow this winter, but as soon as warm weather comes along the work will be rushed to completion. The steam shovel is kept busy right along. Much digging is necessary on account of the hilly country traversed. A large crew of men is employed and this will be increased as soon as warmer weather is here.

Marshfield
Marshfield local No. 110, I. O. O. F. purchased a lot on Third street near the center of the city and the intention is to erect a handsome three story building thereon.

Bessemer
Two hundred and fifty men at the Eureka and Asteroid mines are on a strike. Ten deputy sheriffs are guarding the mines and the superintendent's residence. The men are ugly but no violence has been done yet. The cause of the trouble is a dispute over an agreement, releasing the company from liability, for accident or death, over $500.

Ashland
The Chequamegon Ice Company has completed its annual harvesting, putting in about 22,000 tons this winter. The concern began work Dec. 23, and finished on Washington's birthday. It supplies from its own lakes, Ironwood, Hurley, Iron Belt, Bessemer, Pence and Jesseville, in addition to its Ashland trade, which includes the local trade and the supply for storage purposes in the wholesale houses and other places.

Florence
The state supreme court has reversed the decision of the lower court in the case of Chas. Allen vs. the Northwestern Ry. Co. Mr. Allen sought to recover damages in the sum of $1200 for the loss of his sawmill by fire, he claiming that the fire was caused by a locomotive spark. The defense was that the mill's destruction was due to forest fires. The jury in the suit, which was tried in Florence county circuit court last April, found for the plaintiff and fixed damages at $2,000.

Oconto
An unusual occurrence was the double funeral of a husband and wife in this city. Mrs. Carolina Warko died at the age of 92 years. Her funeral was to have been held Sunday. Saturday her husband, aged 77 years, died suddenly and relatives agreed to having both burials on the same day, selecting Monday.

How Old People May Prolong Their Lives

At advanced age the organs act more slowly than in youth. Circulation becomes poor, blood thin and watery, appetite fitful, and digestion weak. This condition leaves the system open to disease such as Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Pneumonia, Rheumatism, etc.

VINOL is the greatest health creator and body builder we know of for old people, as it supplies the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissue and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS THE PROOF
A case is recorded in Albany, N. Y., of a woman who felt she was breaking down by age and was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. She had no strength and the slightest exertion tired her, but VINOL made her well and strong, and she states that she feels ten years younger than she did before taking VINOL.

We ask every aged person in this neighborhood to try a bottle of VINOL with the understanding that we will return their money if it does not prove beneficial.

John J. Reardon, Druggist, Rhineland, Wis.

Oelhafen, of this city, were injured while in a Milwaukee road sleeping car at the Union depot, Milwaukee. The coach was struck by a switch engine. The Tomahawk ladies were thrown violently about and painfully cut by broken glass. The other occupants of the car were in their berths and escaped unhurt. The cause of the accident is unknown, according to railroad officials.

Hayward

Henry Niemi, the young Finlander, who pleaded guilty to the charge of murdering Jas. Edward, a fellow woodsman, was sentenced by Judge Wickham at Eau Claire to life imprisonment. The crime was one of the most cowardly and brutal ever committed in northern Wisconsin.

Ladysmith

Seven basket ball teams will participate in Ladysmith's Second Annual Tri-County Basket Ball Tournament to be held here March 31 and April 1st. The following cities will be represented Park Falls, Tony, Barron and Ladysmith. Three girls teams from Barron, Park Falls and Ladysmith high schools will play for the Tri-County Championship pennant.

Escanaba

The Madden & Schable lands in Delta county, 7600 acres, have been sold to the Escanaba Lumber Company for $65,000. The concern will work up the hardwood timber in its two saw mills and flooring mill.

Merrill

For the theft of four pine log-values at about $18, John B. Berse and Fred. Frendenwald of Dudley, were each fined $50 and costs by Judge M. C. Porter in county court. The men pleaded guilty to the charge Berse was in the employ of the Heine mann Lumber Company. He cut a large pine tree and after taking Frendenwald into his confidence Berse engaged him to haul the logs to his home. The foreman for the company, learning of the steal, had the two arrested.

Bayfield

The United States Government has appropriated $100,000 for the building of a new light house and fog signal station on Michigan Island, Lake Superior. It passed the senate Feb. 11 and is a sure thing. Ed Lane is the light keeper on this island and he has one assistant, Mr. Smith, but with a fog signal station it will require another assistant. As Michigan Island is on the main south channel a better light and fog signal has been needed for many years.

BUSINESS COLLEGE NOTES

Rudie Mueller and Logan Sanderson made the school a short call while in the city, over Sunday.

A postal from James Gillen locates him in Milwaukee where he has a good position at a very good salary.

Mr. Fred H. Criger of Miles City, Montana, gave the school a very instructive talk and demonstration of what can be accomplished in penmanship by diligent work. Mr. Criger is an expert penman and the many excellent points and suggestions given will be long retained by the students. We trust he will see fit to give us another call.

Mr. Wood is very busy getting out advertising matter in regard to the opening of the Spring term March 6th. A good enrollment is expected.

WOODSMAN FATALLY HURT

Fred Schroeder, a woodsman in an accident at Wabeno, last Thursday, was rendered deaf, and speechless, and will probably die. Schroeder, who is an employee of the Jones Lumber Company, was decking logs when an iron hook broke loose, striking him on the jaw and knocking him to the ground, thirty feet below.

COMMENTS ON REV. CLARK'S TALK

S. G. Perinier Wholly Agrees With Pastor In His Remarks On Socialism

Editor New North

"In other words, my contention is, that whatever the form of government, it can perform its functions successfully only on condition that the individual citizen is the right kind of citizen." Thus Rev. Grant V. Clark summarized in a well prepared and well delivered discourse on the socialist movement at the Congregational church Sunday evening, Feb. 19th.

With this statement I heartily agree. It is only as to the proper method of removing the trouble that I cannot fully follow. The individualistic doctrine assumes that if the individual will act for the best of all mankind and practice a life of self-denial for the good of the community, or race, all will be well. It exhorts the individual to so act. Exaltation failing, the individualist finds no remedy in any precept of his school of thought. This conception of things presupposes three suppositional conceptions. First, the individual must, by his own action, come to have an understanding of what is for the public welfare. Second he must by his own action, have the desire to act for this welfare. Third he is the moulder of his own mind in these matters; that is, he is a creature possessing a free will. As I view the matter, the existence of none of these suppositional conditions is proved by a consideration of the facts applying. To take them in one, two, three order: First the individuals understanding is the result of instruction acquired from parents, teachers and etc., and experiences with those origin he as an individual had nothing to do. Second, few individuals are to any considerable extent responsible for what desires are formed by conditions outside of himself or at least before he reaches the age of responsibility. If he has had proper condition of birth and proper living conditions he will almost invariably be possessed of proper desires and aims. The product of heredity and direct environment, is the individual. With his own birth and his own environment the individual has little or nothing to do until his mentality is practically matured. We claim that apparent exceptions to this rule, where we find altruistic mentalities with higher ethical standards stringing from lesser developed families are accounted for by prenatal conditions so remote as to defy our efforts to investigate.

Modern research in the domains of zoology and sociology bears out in our claim, and let me ask, has a better explanation ever been offered? Third a perusal of these two foregoing statements will show that this verification in a verification of the third, namely, the individual, as such, is not a creature possessing a free will in as much as his mentality including his will is formed before the age of responsibility by agencies over which he has no control. The collectivist school of thought then sums up thus. The collectivity (society) is responsible for conditions which predetermine the individual personality in as much as this collectivity by its activity or passivity causes conditions (whatever they may be) to exist. The socialist, nothing that under existing conditions society through the deterioration on the part of individuals is itself deteriorating, declares: We will arouse society to a realization of its responsibility in this matter so that conditions shall be so arranged that the individual products may be healthy, moral, ethical beings—MEN.

Supreme Court Affirms Verdict In Suit Against Quandt

The case of Hippler vs. Quandt, which arose out of the arrest of Herman Hippler, who was clerking in the hotel for H. D. Quandt when he was proprietor of the Fuller Hotel at Rhineland, was decided by the Supreme court in favor of Mr. Hippler and the judgment in the Circuit Court of Waupaca county for $500 damages and costs was affirmed. It will be remembered that Mr. Hippler, who was working for H. D. Quandt while he was proprietor of the hotel here, was arrested for embezzlement and discharged in municipal court. Immediately thereafter, Hippler, by his attorneys, Browne Brown & Fisher, Waupaca, brought an action for malicious prosecution which resulted in a verdict for Mr. Hippler of $500, which case was appealed to the Supreme court by Quandt. Mr. Hippler was vindicated on every point and obtains a fairly large judgment against Quandt.

THIS BILL IS WRONG.

A bill now in the legislature to tax building and loan associations is all wrong and should be defeated. There is not another institution in this city that has done the good for the masses that the building and loan association has. Every citizen interested in the welfare of this great organization in the various cities of the state should write to his representative and ask him to work and vote against this bill.

WHERE GAYLORD STANDS

Of all the many hearings on bills at Madison the past week the one most spectacular was on water powers during which Senator W. R. Gaylord of Milwaukee, social democrat, spoke for his bill to repeal all existing franchises and dam permits and place the entire proposition under the control of a state board of public works. Incidentally, he took occasion to refer the present attorney general, Levi H. Bancroft, in connection with the latter's alleged attitude toward waterpower legislation two years ago, as "the Ballinger of Wisconsin."

LORIMER IS ACQUITTED

Senator William Lorimer of Illinois is a welcome member of the U. S. Senate as shown by a vote of that venerable body yesterday. The vote stood 46 to 40 in favor of acquittal on Mr. Lorimer's part of a knowledge of bribery. Of course "Uncle Ike" voted in favor of the Illinois Senator. We expected he would. The same venerable body defeated a law to let the people of the respective states elect their U. S. Senators instead of the legislatures. So far as the interests of the masses are concerned, it is just as well that the sixty-first congress closes up business next Saturday afternoon.

KIND TO THE RICH

Last week, the organs of the "Special interests" were yelling themselves hoarse in praise of Bancroft because he had collected an inheritance tax of $35,000.00. Now it comes to light that the dear Bancroft settled a legitimate claim of about $2,500,000.00 for this small sum. Attorney General Bancroft's record shows he always has been good to the millions and we have no reason to believe he is going to change now. Go over this man's record if you doubt the above statement. Can the Leopard change its spots?

LOSES ITS FIGHTING EDGE

This is the "most unkindest" cut of all. In addition to calling the Record Herald all kinds of names. The Milwaukee Journal now says it is a "Mollycoddle." And this just because we have left the Journal alone for a few days. As the late Josh Billings observed: "This is tew mutch." Words fail.—Wausau Record-Herald, Special Interest.

You are a mollycoddle because you have lost the fighting edge. There was a time when you was almost as keen as the sage of Wausau to defend riparian right and you couldn't sleep nights for fear the ghost dancers would get the dollar that you had saved. Did you lose it? The water power interests ought to raise your salary.—Milwaukee Journal.

AGAINST TAFT RECIPROCITY

The National Grange is bitterly opposed to the Taft reciprocity treaty as shown by resolutions adopted by that body. They believe in true reciprocity, but not in the Cannon-Aldrich-Taft kind such as the recent tariff. The following is their expression:

The Grange favors real reciprocity, but it does not believe in one-sided, "jag-handed," sham reciprocity, which deprives the farmer of all protection against the only country from which any considerable quantity of farm products can be brought into the United States, and at the same time make no material reduction in the high tariff on manufactured articles which our farmers buy.

The Grange favors an honest tariff revision downward, but it does not believe in revising the tariff on farm products out of existence, while leaving the exorbitant taxes on manufacturers practically untouched.

An examination of the provisions of the proposed reciprocity law will show that the slight reductions made in the duties on Canadian manufactured articles will be benefit whatever to our farmers, for the reason that Canada does not produce these articles as cheaply as they can be made here.

To show that this reciprocity measure is not an honest effort to reduce the cost of living in the interest of the consumer, it is sufficient to point out that, while wheat is put on the free list, flour is taxed 50 cents per barrel. Cattle, hogs and sheep are to be free of tax, but meats, both fresh and cured, are to be taxed 14 cents per pound for the benefit of the Beef

Trust.

The Grange position is that the farmers should receive exactly the same measure of protection as the manufacturers. As a matter of fact, the average tariff rate on the staple farm products is now only about 45 per cent. And it is proposed to make this unfair discrimination against the farmer still more unjust by putting farm products on the free list, while making no reduction on manufactured articles that will decrease their cost to the farmer.

THE RHINELANDER LIGHTING CO.

Last week attention was called to the main factors determining the lawfulness of rates charged by public utilities; that a showing of high valuations and high operating expenses would appear to warrant high rates; that a reduction of these items reduces the income permitted and consequently lowers rates; and last reports made by utilities to the Railroad Commission, until verified, afford the only information possessed by that tribunal as to the accuracy of these figures.

In the light of these facts a brief analysis of some of the items found in the report of the Rhinelander Lighting Company to the Commission will doubtless prove interesting to the public.

In its report for the year ending June 30th, 1910, under the head of "Cost of Plant and Equipment," the Lighting Company reports the total cost of its plant and equipment as $190,544.48. Doubtless any surprise created by this announcement will not be lessened by an examination of the tax rolls for the year 1910, which discloses a valuation of its taxable property at $19,000.

One of the first items charged to the plant as a part of its cost of $169,407.48 is "FRANCHISES—$24,855.00." The Commission has decided that "No other franchise values should be considered for rate making purposes than those which are represented by a reasonable cost to the investors." It is well known that no payment was made to the city for its franchise, and that this franchise has since been surrendered and an indeterminate permit accepted under the terms of the public utility act. How, then, did its franchise cost $24,855.00? And how can a valuation based to such a large extent upon this item be justified as one upon which the public should be required to render a reasonable return? In the language of the Commission "If high profits could be justified because of great franchise values, this fact, in turn, would enhance the value of the franchise itself, and so justify still higher charges."

We think a verification of this report by the Railroad Commission would result in very prompt elimination of this item as a part of the cost of the plant. Other items will be referred to later.

BETTER FORM OF BALLOT

For twenty years the voters of Wisconsin have endured the burdens and perplexities of about the worst form of ballot that could be devised. The legislature of 1899 gave us the Cooper election law and a very good form of ballot. Before the new manner of voting was fairly tried, the legislature of 1891 changed both the law and the ballot; and other legislatures have since done considerable tinkering along the same line. The present blank ballot is a monstrous and a disgrace to the state; and from its use a long suffering people ought to be speedily delivered.

When Gov. LaFollette called the legislature together in special in December, 1905, one of the objects stated in the call was "to provide a form of ballot for use at elections." During that session a good measure providing for the Massachusetts form of ballot was prepared and introduced in the assembly by the committee on privileges and elections. It received strong support, and only failed of passage in that body on a tie vote. While this measure was under consideration the Madison Democrat said:

"The New York newspapers of all forms of political faith are asking for deliverance from the cumbersome form of ballot in vogue there and the executive committee of the citizens' union has voted to prepare at once a petition to the legislature asking for a repeal of the present ballot law and the adoption of the Massachusetts system which requires the elector to mark every individual name for which he desires to vote. That is the style of ballot we in Wisconsin should have. It is a kind that promotes discriminative voting—that encourages the citizen to learn about the various nominees that he may exercise the franchise understandingly. It is the only species of ballot for an intelligent, independent people. The present method by which the ignorant partisan may, most readily heed the wishes of the bosses by a mere cross in a circle or square at the top of a certain column, thus swallowing a whole party ticket straight, the rascals with the saints, puts a premium on both ignorance and corruption."

It is high time this mischief making contrivance should be cast aside in Wisconsin. Governor LaFollette, if he shall have any influence in state affairs after his progression to the senate, should leave to his successors a pregnant suggestion in behalf of ballot reform along Massachusetts lines. Therein lies purifying and educational reform of enduring worth and monumental proportions."

If the will of the people is to be the law of the land as it ought to be,—it is all important that we have a simple method of fairly recording the will of the people. To this end let the legislature of Wisconsin adopt the Massachusetts form of ballot.—Mineral Point, Democrat.

WHY WOMEN PREFER IT.

When the newsboy comes through the train with the Chicago papers, watch the married couple across the aisle. If the man is a well regulated husband he will ask his wife which paper she prefers, and then you may lay odds that the one chosen will be Record Herald. There is no mystery about it. The man knows that he will find all the news in the Record Herald, to be sure, but the woman knows it is the only paper that also gives adequate attention to the things in which women are specially interested. In every daily issue she can find a bill of fare for the day's three meals, reliable society news, good book reviews, bright verses and jokes without vulgarity, a cartoon that any body can enjoy and a fair share of the news of the day relating to women. Every Monday there is "Martha's Management," a very helpful column of culinary topics. In the Sunday edition a whole section is devoted to women, including Marion Harland's famous page, Jeanette Hope's fashions direct from Paris, Dame Curtissey's "Novelties in Entertainment" and many special articles of timely interest. Then there is the Sunday Magazine of the Record-Herald, a real magazine, full of good love stories and beautiful pictures. Do you wonder that women prefer the Record Herald?

QUIET WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

New North Madison Correspondent Tells of Doings in State Capital

Madison, Wis., Feb. 23.

The past week in the legislature has been occupied wholly in the transaction of routine business, but few members being present in either house. This consisted mainly in receiving bills from the Revision Committee and referring the same to the proper committees for hearing.

The immense volume of subjects presented for legislative consideration has led to a more systematic method of procedure than has hitherto prevailed. The reports and recommendations of the five special committees, which offer subject matter enough to occupy the time of an ordinary legislative session, have been given the right of way in hearings before the joint session of both houses. With the exception of the water power question, hearings on all these matters have practically been concluded. It is expected that the water power hearing will be concluded this week. This method of joint hearings by the whole legislature on questions which have been made the subject of extended study by men, who are in a position to offer well matured suggestions in the form of bills on each subject, will obviate the necessity for much further consideration when the bills come up for passage in each house. Thus with respect to these measures, which are in a sense a legacy from the previous legislature, practically all that remains is to take the vote on them when they are reported in by the committee.

These measures have prevented consideration of nearly all new legislation, originally introduced in this session. Practically all bills have been introduced however and hearings will begin this week on a large number of them in earnest. To facilitate matters it is now proposed to hold sessions of the legislature in the evening, giving the morning and afternoon over to committee hearings. This will allow those who appear before committees to conclude their business without remaining over an extra day, due to night hearings, and will give greater opportunity to University students and townspeople to attend sessions of the legislature. This will tend to create an even more widespread and deeper interest in legislation.

In the large grist of bills already introduced are many propositions which will undoubtedly call more thorough study than will be possible at this session of the legislature. It is probable that some of them will be turned over to special committees for investigation in the same manner as the water power and other questions were handled by the last legislature. This method is perhaps less expensive and undoubtedly more efficacious in perfecting bills for legislative consideration. It is only because the most thorough and painstaking study has been made before their enactment into law, that all the remedial legislation for the public welfare passed during the last decade has stood the test of judicial scrutiny in our highest court, and at the same time has been beneficial to the people of the whole state. Legislation reared on a sound basis has made Wisconsin the pioneer among all the progressive commonwealths of the nation.

A. Pelletier of Ashland spent a few hours in the city Saturday, accompanied by his little son. Mr. Pelletier, who until four years ago made Rhinelander his home, suffered from a complete nervous break down about a year ago and his health is not yet of the best. For some time he received treatment in a sanitarium which proved of benefit to him. He hopes to be strong enough within a few months to resume his position on the Northwestern road as freight conductor.

THE NEW NORTH

MARCH 2, 1911.

C. A. Wixson and Morris McKee were in Milwaukee this week.

Mrs. Gauthier of Lac du Flambeau was here Tuesday on a shopping trip. Mrs. W. E. Brown and daughter, Miss Edna, were hostesses at a five o'clock tea Friday.

Wanted—Apprentice. Apply at Miss M. J. Gilbert's millinery parlors, Brown Street.

Albert Kemberg of Chicago, was in the city Tuesday, visiting his friends, the Mettayer boys.

German Lent services will be held every Sunday evening at 7:30 at the German Luth. church during Lent.

Mrs. F. O. Ekholm and little son, Ronald, of Ironwood are guests at the home of her brother, J. Segerstrom.

Fred E. Gillette has sold his residence property in Tomahawk and Minneapolis will hereafter be the home of the family.

Geo. Hanson has completed his course of study at Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, Mich., and arrived home Monday. George is now open for a position as stenographer.

A new Catholic church is to be built at Sawyer, the little summer resort village north of Woodruff. Funds are now being solicited for the building of the edifice.

Miss M. J. Gilbert, who since the first of January has been in Milwaukee and Chicago, studying new styles in millinery, returned to the city this week and is again at her parlors on Brown Street.

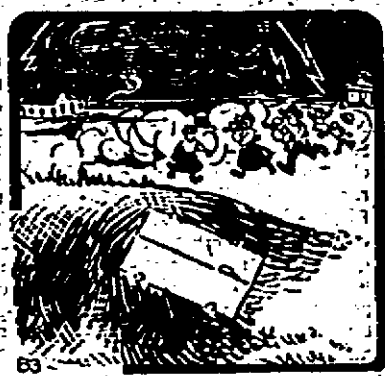

F. A. Lowell, county superintendent of schools, went to Minocqua today, to conduct the teachers' institute there tomorrow. B. Mack Dresden and Miss Sutton, of the Oneida county Training School, will also be in attendance.

Wm. Clothier received a letter from the West this week in which his father offered him the position of overseer on his apple orchard in the Spokane Valley. The elder Clothier has "made good" financially since going West and his fruit lands are valued at $50,000.

Rudolph Norby of Seattle, Wash., was in Rhinelander, Sunday, leaving the following day for New York City from where he will sail for his old home in Norway. Mr. Norby was a resident of this city about fifteen years ago and has since been engaged in the wholesale fish business on the Pacific coast.

Atty. W. E. Fisher who underwent an operation at the Mayo Bros. hospital in Rochester, Minn., last week, is gaining satisfactorily. The operation was a delicate one, but according to a letter received by Mr. Van Hecke, law partner of Mr. Fisher, from Mrs. Fisher, who accompanied her husband to Rochester, he is improving and that all indications point to a rapid recovery.—Merrill News.

The New North is in receipt of a postal containing a view of a business street in Marshfield, Ore., sent by Mrs. Etta Billings, a former Rhinelander resident. Marshfield is a growing little city where business activity is evident on all sides. Some of the buildings shown in the card are four and five stories high and substantially built of brick and stone. The streets are paved and lighted by gas.

Mrs. Henry Knapp is ill with La Grippe at her home in the town of Pelican.

John Foley of Manawa was the guest of his brother, Frank Foley, at the Rapids Hotel this week.

Mrs. Arthur Taylor entertained Monday afternoon in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Percy Taylor of Alberta.

Miss Francis Quinlan returned from Chicago Sunday where she made heavy purchases of new millinery.

Wm. Dunn has recovered from an illness with La Grippe and resumed his work at the Nichols hardware store, Monday.

Miss Lizzie Dusel arrived home Friday from Milwaukee where she spent three weeks studying the new designs in spring millinery.

Mrs. Ed. Smith of Lac du Flambeau was a visitor at the Clothier residence one day last week. While here Mrs. Smith was initiated in the Eastern Stars.

The Dalbec Club will give a dancing party at Langlois' hall Saturday night. The public is cordially invited to attend. Plenty of fun and good music.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Karl leave within a few days for California where with his father he will engage in farming in the fertile Sacramento Valley. Mr. Karl has been employed as salesman with the T. C. Wood Hardware Company for the last two years.

Frank Easton, rural mail carrier, attended the convention of Waupaca county rural carriers at Clintonville last week. The members were addressed by Mayor Fremont, formerly of Rhinelander. As Mr. Easton is the only rural carrier in Oneida county he joined the association in Waupaca country where he at one time resided.

LODGE IN NEW HOME

Odd Fellows Hold First Meeting in News Building

The members of the Odd Fellows lodge of this city held their first meeting in their new quarters in the News building Monday evening.

Following the business portion of the meeting those present enjoyed an oyster supper and smoker.

The new lodge rooms are among the finest in the city. The main hall, closets and ante rooms are well arranged and equipped with all conveniences. Gust. Horn, who drew the plans for the building being an Odd Fellow himself, knew just what the lodge needed. The lodge will rent the hall to other societies of the city.

ENTERTAIN FOR MRS. DOLAN

In honor of Mrs. Jennie Dolan, who with her family, leaves soon for Colorado to reside, Mrs. Owen Leonard and Mrs. D. Kirk entertained a party of lady friends at the Kirk residence on King Street, Monday evening. Cinch was played, eight tables being occupied. At the close of the party the ladies presented Mrs. Dolan with a gold bracelet, and Mrs. J. G. Dunn and Mrs. H. L. Jewett, in behalf of the Lady Catholic Foresters, gave her a handsome lodge pin.

Owing to the poor health of the children Mrs. Dolan is obliged to take them to Colorado where it is hoped that the climate will help them. She has rented her residence property on King Street to Lynn Vaughan.

JOHN WALSH IS WANTED

He Is Charged With Breaking Into Cassian House

Charged with removing goods from a town of Cassian house, which he broke into on or about January 25th, last, John Walsh is being sought by the Oneida county officers. Descriptions of the fellow have been sent to the police throughout the state.

Walsh is about 40 years of age, height 5 feet 10 in., and weighs about 160 pounds. Smooth face, light complexion, light blue eyes, grey hair, walks erect and very quick acting. He is not thought to be far from Rhinelander.

BIG CROWD AT MASQUERADE

The 11th annual mask ball of the Royal Neighbors at Gilligan's hall, Monday evening was attended by nearly one hundred couples. Over half of those present were masked and in costumes, presenting a brilliant scene. All of the familiar Sunday paper characters were there including the Katzenjammer Kids and Happy Hooligan.

The Military Orchestra furnished music, which was as usual up to the high standard. The Royal Neighbors netted a nice sum and thank the public for their patronage.

TIM O'CONNELL VERY ILL

Tim O'Connell, the well known saloon man, was taken to St. Mary's hospital Saturday. He is in a critical condition with dropsy and the doctors talk most discouragingly of his case. A few years ago Mr. O'Connell underwent a series of surgical operations and he has never since enjoyed perfect health.

TRAINING SCHOOL TO AID FARMERS

Tests of Milk and Seeds Will Be Made at Institution Free of Charge

Oneida county has about 244,000 acres of farming land, of which about 11,000 or 4 1/2 per cent are under cultivation at the present time. Practically all of the uncultivated land needs only the removal of stumps and wind falls to make it ready for the plow. The only question is "Will it pay?" In many cases enough timber is left on the land which can be utilized for lumber, stove wood, pulp wood and ties. The soil of the land in this county is largely loam in the eastern half and clay loam in the western half. Underlying the sand at a depth ranging from two to 100 feet or more is a layer of clay which helps to keep the top soil moist.

What can this soil produce? The Northern Experimental Station of the University of Wisconsin has found these to be the facts in the case:

"The climate is favorable to the rapid development of vegetation since the rainfall is well distributed through the growing season and unreasonable frosts are rare, due to the moderating influence of the Great Lakes. A variety of crops may be grown, including grasses, clovers, corn, small grains, potatoes, garden vegetables, small fruits and, in certain sections, the hardy tree fruit."

The leading type of farming for this section seems destined to be dairying, owing to the natural advantages of good grazing lands, favorable markets for dairy products, etc. Sheep raising will undoubtedly increase in extent as an aid in clearing land and in combination with the growing of such crops as peas, clover and buckwheat.

The growing of special crops is profitable in certain sections upon soils particularly suitable to those crops. Potato raising is a paying industry in a large part of the sandy and sandy loam sections. The raising of clover for seed has given good returns in several localities. Sugar beets yield well on the loam soils and are above the average in sugar content.

The experience of other settlers shows that farmers in this region should practice rotation of crops and grow clover to increase the humus and nitrogen in their soils. The greater part of the produce raised should be fed to live stock and the manure carefully returned to the fields. Small, well cultivated farms operated intensively are advocated as the most profitable.

The Oneida County School is anxious not only to prepare teachers for the country schools of the county but also to aid the farmers of the county as much as possible in the realization of the fact that Oneida county can be made an ideal farming community. For this reason, the Training School has been equipped with an apparatus designed to assist farmers. The county can be made essentially a dairying country but the farmers of the county have not as yet woken up to that fact. To aid in a complete outfit for the testing of milk as to the specific gravity and the butter fat content, the principal of the school will be very glad to test milk for farmers free of all charge if they will provide him with about one pint of full milk or cream or buttermilk or whey.

Much of the seed which the farmers of this county have paid in the past—fancy prices for has proven unsatisfactory because of its low germinating power and its impurities. Before the farmers plant or purchase new seed, they are invited to submit free analysis will be made and its a sample to the Training School and germination will be determined as also the per cent of impurity. This test will require from 5 to 10 days and will be made, as the milk test, free of charge. About two ounces of seed will be required.

The farmers of this county are urged not to be backward in availing themselves of this opportunity for they cannot help but receive a substantial benefit from it.

MAY OPEN PLUMBING SHOP

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brots returned to the city Monday from a three weeks sojourn among his people at Ann Arbor, Mich. Mr. Brots, who was until recently a partner of R. G. Lowell, in the plumbing business, is considering opening a plumbing and heating store here in the spring. He is now looking around for a suitable location for the business.

THIS MAN HEARD LINCOLN'S SPEECH.

By T. C. EVANS.

I STOOD within a few yards of President Lincoln when he delivered his first inaugural address from the east portico of the capitol in Washington. I was a newspaper correspondent and had gone with him from his home in Springfield to recount for my paper the incidents of his journey. Washington looked on the day as a momentous one and was not free from a sense of peril. No previous inauguration day had been so ushered in.

The procession began to move about 11 o'clock, but it was an hour and a half before Buchanan appeared. When all was ready Senators Baker and Pierce took seats in the carriage fronting the two presidents, Buchanan looking old, gray and haggard, Lincoln dark and firm and wearing a mournful and anxious expression of countenance. Thus accompanied they set forth on their historic ride to the capitol. Around the carriage were mounted guards and a flying squadron of newspaper correspondents, the latter keeping as near to it as possible.

At the artists of an illustrated paper making a sketch of the scene as he went along. There was a desert cloud of dust along the avenue riding the blustering March winds. It was a little after 1 o'clock when the outgoing and incoming presidents, arm in arm, entered the capitol, whence they emerged in a few minutes, preceded by the marshal of the District, judges of the supreme court and sergeant-at-arms, and followed by the senators, the diplomatic corps, heads of departments, governors of states and others, and made their way to a small wooden pavilion, under which Mr. Lincoln stood while he delivered his memorable message. Chief Justice Taney, old, shriveled to the bone, with a face like parchment, muffled in his silken robes, sat in front of the array of judges.

Mr. Lincoln's voice was clear and penetrating and was distinctly heard far and near among the assembled multitudes. At the end a great cheer arose and ran like a wave along the avenue, carrying testimony which was likewise flying over the wires in every direction that the inauguration had been successfully accomplished and that in spite of all perils, visionary and real, Abraham Lincoln was president of the United States and a new historic era had been ushered in.

If you see it in the New North—its so.

THE FLOWERS ON HER BONNET

How a Pink Geranium Made Trouble in a Church Society.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.
(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

Mrs. Wixon paused outside the church door and waited until two other women joined her; then the three made their way slowly down the path and out into the dusty road, where their plodding feet left a white cloud of dust in their wake.

Mrs. Wixon was short and stout and red of face, with iron gray hair, surmounted by a rusty black velvet turban, above which waggled a worn ostrich feather. Her antiquated cape was rusty, as was the black silk skirt she trailed.

Miss Luella Barton was tall and of a sallow complexion. Her gown was of better material and perhaps in a better state of preservation than that of her stout companion, but it was far from fresh or inviting.

"I'D LIKE TO SPEAK A FEW WORDS MYSELF."

Little Mrs. Peters skipped along beside the other women, a faded blue straw hat askew on her white hair. All three women wore exceedingly shabby shoes, and their garments seemed unsuitable for the hot June day. They had been the last ones to leave the church, and now they had the white, hot highway to themselves.

"Did you see it?" asked Mrs. Wixon breathlessly of her companions.

"I did," agreed Miss Barton acidly.

"And I," chirruped Mrs. Peters.

"I guess we'll have to call a special meeting, after all," murmured Mrs. Wixon, with a degree of relish in her tone.

"There ain't no use in having a society with rules to it if the rules ain't kept," snorted Miss Barton.

"My husband says a rule isn't a rule unless it is enforced," remarked Mrs. Peters importantly.

"We're going to enforce this one," said Mrs. Wixon decidedly. "Cornelia Rowland knows the rules of the Give It Up society of the First M. E. church just as well as you and me do. She knows she ought to wear her old bonnet, no matter how poor it looks, until the new organ is paid for."

"I guess it won't hurt Cornelia to give up buying flowers for her hat any more'n it does for me to wear my Cousin Emmeline's castoff clothes," commented Luella Barton gloomily.

"No, indeed," chimed in Mrs. Peters, "or for me to wear this awful bonnet. I ain't accustomed to wearing blue anyhow, and"—

"Tain't so much the wearing the clothes," interrupted Mrs. Wixon, tossing the thin feather majestically. "It's the principle of the thing. Here's Cornelia, one of the charter members of the society, coming out with pink flowers in her bonnet for the last two Sundays. She knew she was breaking the tenth rule, which says:

"No member shall purchase any new garment or article of adornment for her person until the debt on the church organ has been fully met and paid," quoted Mrs. Peters eagerly.

"As I was about to say," remarked Mrs. Wixon in an injured tone.

"And there's still $30 due on the organ," commented Miss Barton as she took out a handkerchief saturated with Florida water and proceeded to dust her square shoulders energetically.

"I suppose it will be another year before we can have any new—that is, I suppose it will be another year before the debt will be paid," said Mrs. Peters moodily.

"Mary Peters, I do believe you are feeling bad because you can't go gallivanting around with pink flowers in your bonnet, too!" exclaimed Mrs. Wixon indignantly. "For my part, she continued virtuously, "I'm willing to wear my old clothes year in and year out for the Lord's sake."

"So am I," said Miss Barton. "I give $2 last winter that I was going to lay out on spring clothes."

"I guess I've done my share," whimpered Mrs. Peters angrily. "I guess I done all the cooking for the fair and give"—

"That ain't either here or there," interrupted Mrs. Wixon decidedly as she paused at her front gate. "The matter before the society will be this: Cornelia Rowland has bought new pink flowers for her bonnet and has wore 'em to church two Sundays. Last Sunday I spoke to her about it, and she said nothing and did nothing. Today she wore 'em agin, and now we've got to take some action. That bunch of flowers never cost less than 50 cents."

"How do you know?" asked Luella. "I went into Miss Kilne's millinery store and asked to see pink geranium flowers, and she showed me a bunch just like Cornelia's, and it was 50 cents."

"Did Cornelia buy hers there?" asked the other women eagerly.

"I asked Miss Kilne, and she wouldn't say. She's terrible close mouthed, you know."

"I know," nodded Mrs. Peters sagely. "When is the meeting to be?"

"Tomorrow afternoon, here, to my house," said Mrs. Wixon, "and I hope you'll both come. All the other members will be here and Cornelia too."

"We'll come," said the other women, moving along the road.

"Goodbye!" said the president of the Give It Up society as she panted up the gravelled walk.

"Is that Cornelia ahead?" asked Mrs. Peters, peering nearsightedly up the road.

"Yes," replied Luella Barton grimly.

"She's just going in her gate."

"Cornelia's terrible dressy," sighed Mrs. Peters. "I always liked Cornelia Rowland, but I always thought she was fond of clothes."

"I've seen other people that's fond of clothes," sniffed Miss Barton, with a furtive glance at her friend.

"I suppose you mean me," retorted Mrs. Peters, with an offended laugh. "I don't care if I do like to look nice. My husband says I've looked so shabby the last year that he's ashamed to be seen with me on the street."

"I suppose that's why he spends so much time down to the postoffice," remarked Luella maliciously as she stalked into her front yard and closed the gate with a vicious snap.

Mrs. Peters did not reply. Her blue eyes grew watery, and her thin little nose turned a deep pink, but she did not weep. There were suppressed woe and anger in the look that followed Luella's gaunt form into the front door. Then Mary Peters trotted along home.

"Yes," said Mrs. Wixon, bustling about her small parlor hospitably the following afternoon; "we're all here except Cornelia Rowland herself. I expect she'll be here presently."

There was a murmur of approval among the assembled ladies who comprised the members of the Give It Up society. Seated about the stuffy little room they numbered about twenty-five in all. Without exception they were shabbily attired. Some were even slovenly in their dress, while many were neatly but poorly dressed; but, representing, as they did, a prosperous farming community, a stranger would have been surprised at the lack of taste or beauty in their garments. Even the younger women wore thread bare gowns.

"Here comes Cornelia," whispered Mrs. Peters from her seat in the front window.

There were a shifting of chairs and a buzzing undertone as the harsh bell clanged through the house.

Then Mrs. Wixon, with grave importance depicted on her round face, ushered into the room the erring member of the Give It Up society.

Cornelia Rowland was small and thin, with a straight back and a trim figure. She had meek brown eyes and soft brown hair parted over her smooth brow. Her skin was faded, with a few lines here and there. She wore a spotlessly clean white muslin dress, with a white ribbon belt, and her feet were shod with old fashioned black prunella gaiters. She wore no hat.

She nodded seriously to the assembled women and took a chair which Mrs. Wixon indicated. As she seated herself she found that she was confronting the members of the society, while Mrs. Wixon, as its president, was seated beside her in a huge Boston rocker.

They all rocked silently for a few seconds; then Mrs. Wixon got upon her feet and adjusted a pair of steel bowed spectacles upon her nose. The women were looking at Cornelia Rowland's fresh attire and whispering among themselves.

"Silence!" commanded Mrs. Wixon sharply. There was a rustle of protest among the members; then they settled themselves expectantly.

"We are gathered here this afternoon," continued the president gravely, "to consider the action of one of our members in breaking the tenth rule."

There was a murmur of approval. "I will give in a few words the history of the Give It Up society, and then the members can agree upon whether Cornelia Rowland's behavior is becoming to a member."

"I guess I'd like to speak a few words for myself," said Cornelia Rowland, arising with unexpected spirit and fixing her mild eyes upon Mrs. Wixon's heated countenance.

"Anybody got any objection?" wheezed Mrs. Wixon, looking apprehensively about the room.

There was no answer, and Mrs. Wixon lurched into her chair, leaving the floor to Cornelia Rowland.

The latter faced the assembled women. There was an obstinate line about her pleasant mouth, and her soft eyes wore a look of new determination. She fanned herself with a black silk fan for a few moments before she began, and then she closed it with a little click.

"I am a member of the Give It Up society," she said earnestly. "I can recite all the rules forward and backward, and I've lived up to all of 'em forward and backward. I ain't never broke a rule."

There was a gasp of horror from the women.

"I ain't never broke a rule," repeated Cornelia, energetically. "Now, the Give It Up society was formed for the purpose of paying for the new organ. Nobody asked the ladies of the church to give up wearing any respectable clothes and going around looking like ragpickers' wives in order that the First M. E. church should have a new organ." Cornelia fixed an accusing eye upon Mrs. Wixon's startled countenance. "That organ could have been paid for if it was needed in the regular way by fairs and suppers and the like. But no; somebody with the idea of getting a martyr's crown organized this society, with the result that Upper Village has got the reputation of having the shabbiest looking lot of women in Sudfolk county."

There was a shrinking of feet under chairs and a concealing of worn sleeves.

"I want to know if the members of the choir belong to this society?"

"No," piped Mrs. Peters, with a newly awakened sense of injury. "Catch them fine ladies a-wearing any old clothes for the Lord's sake!"

"I don't believe in churches a-buying organs and things they can't afford. When they can raise the money for a new organ or such without throwing the whole congregation into the poorhouse, it's time to have it. In the meantime the Lord will harken to the old melodion until the church can afford an organ. But the Methodist church has bought the organ. The choir wanted it, and the minister wanted it, and the congregation wanted it, and now they've got it, and we're working hand and foot and eyelash a-trying to pay for it!" Cornelia's voice took on a dramatic quality, and the women listened eagerly.

"We said we'd pay for it, and we will do what we promised, and I say to all of you that while you're wearing these terrible old garments you might as well be clean and tidy about it and"—

"But that ain't explaining about the pink geraniums in your hat," interrupted Luella Barton sourly.

"That's so. If you ladies will follow me to my house I will explain about the pink flowers," replied Cornelia amiably.

There was some protest at this sudden adjournment of the meeting, but presently they all trailed down the road toward the small brown house where Cornelia Rowland lived by herself. Cornelia led the way with head erect and white skirts billowing in the breeze.

She led the way into the house and through the hall to the sunny sitting room. When they were all inside she left the room and returned with a small black bonnet in her hand.

"This is the bonnet," she said dryly. "That has caused all the trouble."

"Yes, yes, but you've taken the flowers off, Cornelia Rowland!" cried old Mrs. Peters fiercely.

"Look here," said Cornelia, turning to the widow. "This is where I get the flowers for my bonnet every Sunday, and they're a mite sweeter than any you can buy."

She indicated a large potted geranium which was covered with great pink, spicy blossoms.

There was a dead silence while the women stared first at Cornelia, then at the geranium and finally at the bonnet.

"I want to know!" ejaculated Mrs. Peters admiringly. "I guess I can do that myself and have a new flower every Sunday."

"I know you are all looking at my white dress," continued Cornelia pleasantly, "but if you'll look at it closely you will see it is made from the white muslin curtains that used to hang in my best bedroom. I had plenty of curtains, but no dress, and so I used them for that." She smoothed down the crisp folds thoughtfully and then looked at her guests with a bright smile.

"And now, ladies, you will see that in wearing the pink flowers in my bonnet I was not breaking a rule of the society."

"That's so," they agreed heartily, casting accusing glances at the unhappy president.

"And I want you all to stay and have tea with me," continued Cornelia, "and we'll plan an entertainment so's to pay off the church debt this summer. Then we can all have something decent to wear next winter."

So the members of the Give It Up society of the Methodist church sat down amicably together and ate of the delicious cooking of Cornelia Rowland, while the pink geranium graced the center of the table and shed beauty and perfume over all.

CELEBRATE WITH FATHER JOHNSON

His 5th Anniversary As Vicar at St. Augustine's Is Fittingly Observed

Sunday and Monday of this week were notable days in the annals of St. Augustine's Episcopal church of this city. On Sunday Rt. Rev. Bishop Weller, of the Fond du Lac diocese, conducted communion and confirmation services. A class of forty-two was confirmed. Monday was followed at 7:30 by a communion service at which the Bishop celebrated. Those about to be confirmed made their first communion. At 11 o'clock Holy communion was celebrated by Father Johnson and at this service Bishop Weller preached.

In the evening at 7:30 confirmation took place. This was an impressive ceremony and was attended by the largest number of people to ever gather in the church. It was necessary to place chairs in the aisles that all present might have seats. Bishop Weller again spoke.

The parish festival and observance of Father Johnson's fifth anniversary was held in the Guild hall on Friday evening. The hall was tastefully and beautifully trimmed with cut flowers, potted plants and other appropriate decorations. It is estimated that two hundred persons partook of the banquet, which was prepared and served by the ladies of St. Augustine's Guild.

While gathered about the board tables were made and responded to by prominent members of the congregation and the visiting clergy. Bishop Weller was toast master. In a neat little address the Bishop told of the success which has attended Father Johnson's efforts in this city. He praised the Vicar highly for his remarkable work which he has accomplished for the church during the five years which he has been in charge.

Father Samwell of Eagle River, remarked on the good Father Johnson has done for the Episcopalists of Eagle River. He spoke of the warm feeling which the residents of that city have for him. Father Griffin, of Antigo, gave an entertaining talk relative to the Rhinelander church. He commented on its rapid growth and the prestige which it has in the diocese. He said that at the annual councils at Fond du Lac, Father Johnson and St. Augustine's always come in for the greatest share of attention. Other churches can not prevent having a slight spirit of jealousy.

The program consisted of a piano trio by Messdames Forbes, Harrison and Hampton, Miss Dowes gave two able readings and Wm. Harwood rendered two solos: "If I were a Rose" and "Jypsy Joe."

Vicar Is Remembered During the evening Father Johnson, was presented by Miss Bessie McIndoe, of St. Elizabeth's Guild, with a black walrus skin vestment bag containing a set of linen vestments. So surprised and overcome was he by the receipt of this offering that he was unable to respond. As he was slowly recovering his composure, Paul Browne, in behalf of the congregation, handed the vicar a pretty little candy box which upon being opened was found to contain fifty dollars.

It was several minutes before Father Johnson could command words to thank his people for their kindness. He said that he would use the money of which he is badly and sadly in need.

Throughout Monday Father Johnson received many congratulatory messages and calls from friends.

MUNICIPAL COURT NEWS

Joe Cates Is Held For Issuing Worthless Checks

On complaint of J. R. Marvin, proprietor of the Lakeside House at Minocqua, Joe Cates was arrested this week for issuing personal checks on a bank in which it is alleged he has no deposit. Cates gave Marvin one of these checks for $25. His hearing was adjourned until March 6th, before which time it is believed the case will be settled out of court.

A warrant was issued Monday for Carl Carlson of Woodboro, charging him with the theft of a suit of clothes. Carlson is still at liberty.

WAYS OF CARRYING MONEY

Englishman and American Usually Scorns Pocketbook, Which Is Used in France and Germany.

"It is interesting to note," says an observant New Yorker, "the various methods in which men of different nationalities carry their worldly wealth."

"The Englishman carries gold, silver and copper all loose in his trousers pocket, pulls out a handful of the mixture in an opulent way and selects the coin he needs."

"The American carries his 'wad' or 'roll' in pretty much the same way, the average man here looking with contempt upon the pocketbook as indicative of a 'tight' disposition."

"The Frenchman makes use of a leather purse with no distinguishing characteristics. The German uses one, rarely embrodered in silks by the fair hands of some Lottchen."

"The half-civilized capitalist from some torrid South American city carries his dollars in a belt with cunningly devised pockets to baffle the gentlemen with light fingers. Some of these belts are quite expensive."

"The Italian of the poorer classes ties up his little fortune in a gayly-colored handkerchief secured with many knots, which he recrates in some mysterious manner about his clothes."

"A similar course has charms for the Spaniard, while the lower class Russian exhibits a preference for his boots or the lining of his clothes as a hiding place for his savings."

Made It Heave To.

An old lake sailor, a bit wobbly as to his underpinnings, stood at the corner of East Fourteenth street and Euclid avenue the other night waiting for a car. Two or three of the cars passed him by whizzing because in the obscurity the motorman couldn't make out the waiting figure. The old man didn't appear to like this at all, and when the next car came whirling along he took his stand in the middle of the track and let out a call that could be heard two blocks.

"Heave to, till I board ye!" he shouted. The car "heave to" and the old fellow pulled alongside, climbed over the gangway, and was off in a flash. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ice Caves.

Now that a new ice cave, which is said to be the largest in the world, has been discovered in the Austrian Alps, it is appropriate to remark that any traveler who is anxious to see an ice cave without going so far as to visit one, without difficulty, from either Thun or Interlaken. It is situated half way down the precipitous falls from the Sigriswylgrat into the Justistal. The approach to it involves no very difficult scrambling, but it is unwise to enter unless guided by some one who has been there before. The ice is slippery, as ice is apt to be, and there are ample opportunities of sliding down a slope to destruction.

THE distance at which we are removed from the civil war period is brought home by the fact that this year we celebrate the semicentennial of the first inauguration of President Lincoln. In that fifty years the face of the world has rather startlingly changed. The population of the nation in 1860 was only a trifle more than 31,000,000, or less than one-third that of today. There were when Lincoln became president but thirty-four states in the Union against forty-six now, with two more on the way. The steamboat, railroad and telegraph had come into general use, but the telephone was not yet invented; there were but few street at Harrisburg, whence he made his famous midnight trip to Washington. Again there had been rumors and threats, and the north breathed another sigh of relief when the president elect was safe in the capital. Mr. Lincoln lodged at Willard's hotel and spent the intervening days in meeting friends, finishing his inaugural address and selecting the final members of his cabinet.

The morning of March 4 was cloudy, with a raw wind, and the day promised to be as bad as some of the subsequent ones that have made the weather department famous. It cleared toward noon, however, and the afternoon was sunshiny and came as near to being decent as March 4 in Washington ever is. President Buchanan remained at the capitol till noon signing bills, and there was even gossip to the effect that he affixed his name to some measures after his term of office had actually expired. He then drove to Willard's for the president elect, and the procession was soon pounding over the cobblestones of Pennsylvania avenue.

As inauguration day approached there had been increasing evil omens. Washington was full of southern sympathizers, and the burden of the song heard in the streets and elsewhere was that Lincoln would never be inaugurated. On the very day some chap in a New York hotel offered big odds to that effect, but rather inconspicuously evaporated when his bluff was called. That there was apprehension among the friends of Lincoln was shown by the military precautions. Troops were stationed about the city, especially along the line of march on Pennsylvania avenue and around and in the capitol. Sharpshooters were on the roofs of the houses, and General Win-months, he did all in his power to uphold Lincoln and to arouse the north in defense of the Union.

Lincoln was introduced by his old friend Senator Edward D. Baker of Oregon. The crowd was the largest that had ever assembled at an inauguration, being estimated at from 50,000 to 100,000. Mr. Lincoln's high pitched voice carried far and was heard to the outskirts of the assemblage. Every reference to upholding the Union was enthusiastically cheered. Perhaps the fate of the nation never hung on one man's words as it hung on Lincoln's then, and certainly no inaugural address was ever uttered so fateful with meaning. While many sought to minimize the crisis, saying that there would be no war, all knew that the crisis had come, and while Lincoln's greatness was not yet recognized, the nation even then began to realize dimly that the man had come with the occasion. The assemblage, having heard all manner of grotesque reports of the Illinois "rail splitter," was surprised at the statesmanship, moderation and yet the firmness of the address. It was remarked that there was not a weak line in it. Despite its appeals for peace, the south took it as a challenge to war. Looked at in retrospect, it seems plain now that war was inevitable whatever Lincoln had said, but the country did not think so then and continued to disbelieve until the firing on Fort Sumter.

There were some memorable sentences in Lincoln's first inaugural. For example: "Perpetuity is implied, if not expressed, in the fundamental law of all national governments." "Physically speaking, we cannot separate." "You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government, while I shall have the most solemn one to 'preserve, protect and defend it.'" "We are not enemies, but friends." The beauty of these simple statements is that time has approved their wisdom. Today north and south join in saying, "We are not enemies, but friends."

At the close of the address Lincoln was sworn in by Chief Justice Taney, greeted the open Bible with his lips according to form and was hailed by the multitudes and by the guns as president of the United States. At that moment a new era started in America and a new name was given to the world's immortals.

There was a return trip through the wooden tunnel and over the cobblestones of Pennsylvania avenue, a farewell to Buchanan at the White House, a long presidential reception, which was genuinely enjoyed by Lincoln, who always liked to meet "the folks," the usual inaugural ball in the evening, after which the new president, who had to bear a "burden heavier than that of Washington," settled down to grapple with the question of holding Fort Sumter and the larger problems thereto related of preserving a nation and freeing a race.

That newspapers have improved in fifty years, despite the opinions of some pessimists to the contrary, is revealed by a little item in the New York Tribune of March 3, 1861. It is headed, "Telegraphing the Inaugural to New York," and runs:

The manner in which President Lincoln's inaugural was transmitted by telegraph is deserving of especial commendation. The American Telegraph company, under the able management of E. B. Sanford, Esq., vice president, placed at the disposal of the Associated Press three wires between Washington and this city. The delivery of the inaugural commenced at 1:30 o'clock, Washington time, and the telegraphs promptly to the minute began its transmission to New York. The first words of the message were received by the agent of the press here at 1:55 o'clock and the last at about 2:14, while the entire document was furnished to the different newspapers by 4 o'clock. Such rapidity in telegraphic communication has never before been reached in this country, and it should be a source of pride to the American company, its president and operators that so notable an act has been accomplished. We understand that a full synopsis of the inaugural was yesterday evening transmitted to St. John, N. F., thence to be forwarded by steam tug to intercept the steamship Fulton, bound to Europe, off Cape Race.

Even if we have not improved in the matter of presidents in half a century, since we have never had another Lincoln, we have at least gone ahead in telegraphs and newspapers. Let us have hope.

AVOID HARSH DRUGS

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction, and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless and colorless. Combined with other well known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 24 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store.—The Rexall Store. J. J. Reardon—Rhinelander Wis.

FRONTIER DAY PICTURES

At the Grand Opera House, Monday evening, there was shown a set of motion pictures of the great Frontier Day Celebration at Cheyenne, Wyoming, in July 1910. The films are the property of a traveling company, which came to this city rather unexpectedly, and consequently a small audience witnessed the show. Among the pictures were those of Col. Roosevelt, who attended the celebration, Gov. Brooks of Wyoming, Senator Borah of Idaho and other national figures. The views of the cowboy and cowgirl feats, such as rough riding, bronco busting, rope throwing and cattle branding were realistic and of an educational nature. Several interesting Indian pictures were also shown.

As a diversion from the regular program an exhibition of Western rope throwing was given on the stage by one of the members of the company.

WARNING TO RAILROAD MEN

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroad. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroad left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the actions of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends."

cars, and these were moved by horse; there were no ocean cables, while the electric light, automobile, wireless, aeroplane and a myriad other inventions without which the man of today would think himself lost were yet unborn unless in dreams.

The city of Washington was then little more than an overgrown, straggling, untidy country village. The capitol was unfinished, with a great crane towering above it used in putting the dome in place. Pennsylvania avenue was paved with cobblestones and was a street of low and unkempt buildings, interspersed with vacant lots.

Mr. Lincoln had left Springfield on Feb. 11. That night he had spoken in Indianapolis and the next day, on which he became fifty-two years old, had journeyed to Cincinnati. In browsing through a New York Tribune file of the period I ran on to a peculiar and fateful item. It occurred in the issue of Feb. 13. In one column was contained the account of Lincoln's doings on his birthday. In the adjoining one was a short dispatch from Albany, N. Y., recounting that J. Wilkes Booth, an actor, had accidentally fallen on the point of his dagger and wounded himself under the arm. Feb. 13 was also a notable one in Lincoln's career for the reason that the electoral vote was opened and canvassed and he was declared duly elected. This was not the mere formality as at other times, as the air was full of threats and rumors. Lincoln's speechmaking tour ended field Scott, with flying squads of artillery, was about the streets waiting for trouble. Newspaper correspondents complained that there were so many troops surrounding the presidential carriage that the people could not see the occupants. At the capitol a wooden tunnel had been constructed, through which the president and president elect passed. This was guarded. There was even a squad of soldiers under the platform where Lincoln spoke. Despite all these precautions—or because of them—there was not an untoward incident during the day. General Scott was very much on the job, and if there must be war he did not propose that it should begin with the assassination of the chief figure.

It was 1:15 o'clock when the president and president elect reached the senate chamber. The contrast between the two was striking. Buchanan looked aged and shriveled and beside the towering Lincoln appeared little more than "half a man." A temporary platform had been erected at the famous east portico, and to this the procession wended its way. When all the dignitaries were seated the place was so packed that Mr. Lincoln seemed at a loss for a place to deposit his high hat. Thereupon Senator Douglas, his lifetime opponent, gallantly came forward, remarking that if he "could not be president he could at least hold his hat." In honor of Douglas it is recalled that from this time to the end of his life, which came in a few

LINCOLN INAUGURAL AS IT APPEARED TO A NORTHERN TOWN

By Captain GEORGE L. KILMER.
(Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.)

THE peaceful inauguration of Abraham Lincoln as the first Republican president March 4, 1861, marked a turning point in the political crisis through which the nation was then struggling. It pushed off indefinitely a chaos which had seemed imminent. General Winfield Scott, the aged commander of the United States army, after witnessing the ceremonies of the day standing beside a battery of regular artillery having its loaded guns trained upon Capitol hill, exclaimed as the immense crowd of spectators vanished from the scene and the streets of Washington resumed their normal quiet: "Thank God, he is inaugurated!"

The same feeling of relief came to millions of citizens that night and next morning when the telegraph spread the tidings that Lincoln had been seated without mishap or violent commotion. There had been threats and prophecies before election that Lincoln would never be inaugurated, appeals from loyal supporters to withdraw and prevent a catastrophe, and after election threats and prophecies intensified up to the very morning of March 4; hence batteries ready for emergencies and regiments ready at a moment's notice to seat him by force; hence a nation with eyes and ears strained all that day and the next, till every hamlet knew the truth, for an assuring word from Washington.

March 4, 1861, I was a student at the Susquehanna seminary at Binghamton, N. Y. Binghamton then was a town of 5,000 inhabitants. The congressman of the district lived there and was an energetic and aggressive supporter of Lincoln. Where he was there was a storm center of heated political debate.

The telegraph bulletin was the center of interest all day. A few steps away the lobby of the principal hotel was thronged, and there usually inside news—that is, private telegrams—was first given out. Early dispatches from Washington were assuring in the main, although one stated that a plot had been discovered to spike the cannon used upon by General Scott. The usual inauguration program was being followed without interruption. Still the desecration, the reckless and some merely skeptical said in turn, "Wait and see!" Lincoln "never would," "never could," be inaugurated, were different ways of stating the opposition side.

New York morning papers reached us by late afternoon train. They were eagerly scanned for news of Washington on the eve of inauguration. By JOHN HAY, ONE OF LINCOLN'S PRIVATE SECRETARIES AT TIME OF INAUGURATION, that time unofficial telegrams had stated that the inauguration was over. One of these was to the effect that "Lincoln will enforce the laws." "You've inaugurated him, but what can he do?" taunted the opposition and those on the fence. "He'll enforce the laws," was the rejoinder. "But with the whole south in arms, he'll need a million soldiers to do that, and he hasn't got 10,000." "He can have them!" was the response from many a young throat, and that night at least 500 young men of the town vowed to call at the first call.

SERMON TOPICS FOR REV. CLARK

Socialists Offer Him Suggestions For His Sunday Evening Addresses

A list of topics with references from which Rev. Clark may choose a topic for sermons and which may also be of interest to the general public:

Socialism stands for economic justice. Labor today is robbed of the products of its toil. Serfdom and wage slavery of capitalism all stand for the degradation of labor by reason of robbery. Socialism is fundamentally a struggle for justice to give every laborer all that his labor produces. (See "What's so and What Isn't") by work, page 7 following, on the "Origin of Surplus Values" see Vails Principles of Scientific Socialism, Chap. 3.

Socialism stands for justice. Is Christianity against it?

Can a Christian refuse to help in that struggle?

"Righteousness" which is the original word for justice, is the greatest word in the bible. It occurs over 600 times, and everywhere is expressive of the purpose of the bible struggle. See Prov. 14 34.

"Righteousness exalteth a Nation" Is. 11 5. Matt. 5 6.

Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after Righteousness." Justice.

(See "God and the Social Democracy" Kutter, Chap. 1.

Socialism says—"Everyone should have the products of his toil."

The bible says—"They shall build houses and inhabit them."

They shall plant vineyards and eat the fruit thereof. They shall not build and another inhabit. They shall not plant and another eat the fruit thereof. Isaiah 65-21-22.

Socialism says that every able-bodied man should work or render service, if not he is not entitled to live off the labor of others.

Thess. 3-10. The bible says "If a man will not work, neither shall he eat."

Because socialism stands for the emancipation of labor.

Jesus was a working man so were his disciples and the vast majority of the early church.

Christianity originated as a working class struggle for economic emancipation.

Moses was a great labor emancipator. Ex. 2, 7-10, so was Christ. He also gave special thought on labor. Matt. 11, 28.

Primitive Christianity had a much closer relationship to early labor movements than has been supposed. See-Ancient Lowly by Morgan. Vol. I page 496, 501, 517, 554, 9.

The common folks heard him gladly. Mark 12-37.

He declared his mission to be, to emancipate labor, Luke 4, 18-19.

He felt a special tenderness toward children, Mark 10, 13-16.

He did not want one of them—even the least to perish, Matt. 18, 10-14.

There are 1,750,000 little children in America under 16 years of age at work, as child slaves. Socialism everybody knows will set them free EVERY ONE OF THEM. Can a man be a Christian and neglect that duty? See bitter cry of children, by Spargo and child labor in the United States by Cross.

Because Socialism will relieve the poor and oppressed and finally abolish poverty. Socialism seeks to abolish child labor, to insure work for all and thus solve the unemployed problem, to establish accident insurance, sick benefits and old age pensions.

See national platform of the Socialist party also, "Socialist at work" by Hunter. Chap. 7.

Jesus was especially compassionate for the poor and unfortunate. Matt. 25, 34-46.

Pure religion, it is said, is to care for the unfortunate. Jas. 1, 27.

Socialism is the modern, scientific and only effective way to completely and thoroughly do this command.

Charity is a mockery to all the unfortunate, we should first of all give them justice. Christ like Isaiah was furious in his denunciations of those who oppressed the poor. Matt. 23, 14 and 23-33. Luke 11, 42-46 Isaiah 1, 16-17.

Because Socialism puts the social welfare above the individual and demands service for the common good Matt. 6, 19-21. Lay not up treasures etc.

Matt. 19, 21. Luke 12, 33. Matt. 20, 24-27.

"Who would be great let him be servant."

Because Socialism seeks to abolish

IT'S THE BEST POLISH I EVER USED

That's What Every One Says Who Tries
Black Silk Stove Polish
DON'T imagine for a moment that all brands of stove polish are the same. Don't get the idea that to keep a nice glossy shine on your stove you must use Black Silk Stove Polish. It is a question of intelligent application. It is a question of the stove polish you use. Black Silk Stove Polish is so much better than other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison—it is a class all by itself. It makes a brilliant glossy shine that doesn't rub off or cut off. It cleans the iron—becomes a part of the stove. It makes old stoves look like new and lasts for times as long as any other shine. Get a can and give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove, your cook stove, or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Black Silk Stove Polish has been made by the same formula and sold under one name for 25 years. Here is what some of the ladies write us: "I saw your advertisement but was unable to secure the polish here. I sent you for a can and found Black Silk Stove Polish so much better than any I had ever used that I asked my hardware dealer to order a supply. He did so, and is now selling nearly everyone in the place your wonderful polish. I had no idea there could be such a difference in stove polish." "I ordered the sample box of Black Silk Stove Polish and like it so well that I want to black all the other stoves in the house. Enclosed find 50 cents. Send polish for that amount by return mail. Our hardware merchant does not keep it." "I have used Black Silk Stove Polish for years and it is the best I have ever used. It makes the stove shine like a mirror and it lasts for years." "I have used Black Silk Stove Polish and found it all you claim and the best I have ever used." Ask Your Dealer For Black Silk Stove Polish and refuse a substitute brand. (You get no more than the real thing, so why not have the best. Made in liquid for easy use and application.) BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH WORKS 101 E. WYOMING, Milwaukee, Wis. The Black Silk Stove Polish is made from the finest, purest, and most reliable materials. It is not a cheap imitation of a cheap imitation. It is a permanent glossy black surface. (It will keep for years without fading, only 25 cents. Ask your dealer.)

POMPOUS BISHOP MANSELL

Great Prelate of Petersburg Was Thoroughly Squeezed by Sir Busick Harwood of Cambridge.

He was the last pluralist head, holding as he did the bishopric of Petersburg and the mastership of Trinity at the same time. Small of stature, but of a pomposity which by no means served to conceal the meanness of his understanding, he cherished in particular that vulgar error which confounds a lord of parliament with a peer of the realm. It is remembered of him that, offended with the place assigned him at the table of a Cambridge host, he left the dining room without comment or disclosure made, ordered his carriage, and drove back to Trinity. Next morning his host—Sir Busick Harwood, the then professor of physics—waited upon him at his lodging to inquire "in what particular" he had incurred the master's displeasure. Mansell with much stateliness proceeded to address his visitor in these words: "Sir Busick Harwood, I am, by the grace of Almighty God, a peer of this realm—how unworthy a one, God knows."

"Yes, master," interrupted Sir Busick, "and I know, too." Saying which the professor of physics turned suddenly on his heel and the right honorable and right reverend the lord bishop of Petersburg found himself alone—London Nation.

Another Sure Thing. Another thing which is about as sure as death and taxes is that no man can go on bluffing indefinitely without being called.—Atchison Globe.
